

2016 FAI Angelo D'Arrigo Diploma awarded to ALISPORT

ALISPORT SRL (Cremella, Italy) is the very proud recipient of the 2016 FAI Angelo D'Arrigo Diploma which was awarded at the 2016 Annual Meeting of the FAI Environmental Commission (EnvC) held on 5 March 2016 in Moscow. This prestigious diploma was first awarded in 2014 and aims to recognise and promote major contributions in the field of environmental and sustainable development, in accordance with the development of a philosophy and a vision of sport aviation.

This prestigious award is of particular significance to the team at Alisport as it embraces the very same values pursued by our founder, Mr. Gianmario Beretta.

The award itself is named after Angelo D'Arrigo, an Italian Microlight and Hang Glider pilot (1961-2006). D'Arrigo flew with eagles and all kinds of birds of prey which earned him the nickname of "Birdman": by following the migratory route of desert hawks he flew in the Sahara and across the Mediterranean as well as crossing Siberia with Siberian cranes. He also flew over the summit of Aconcagua and in the Everest region up the Western Cwm, very close to the summits of Everest, Lhotse and Nuptse.
